

What I've Learned

The statement "I just need to be happy"; doesn't mean you just leave.

The male human species can be dense between the left and right ears.

You can win the battle;But lose the war.

The more I know....the more I realize I don't know.

The more I know, the more I realize I don't ask for help, till it's almost too late.

The more I know I realize it's more about me, than her.

The more I know the more it's OK to say sorry, even when.....

The more I know, I pray "Lord show me what I need to know."

The more I know, the more I realize love is an action, not a tone of voice.

The more I know pride and selfishness don't taste very good.

I've learned love is a committed, day-by-day, twinkle in your eye kind of thing.

I've learned that love is staying in the relationship, even when I don't feel like it.

I've learned that love is saying you're sorry, meaning it and not doing it again.

I've learned that I can make a difference, if I don't give up.

I've learned that only prayer can move the mountain in front of me;

control or manipulation is not the answer.

I've learned that you can't make someone love you, you can only love them.

I've learned that I can't change others, only God can.

The more I know, the more I realize...

God's perspective doesn't always make sense to me.

And...life is not about what you know,

but.... about who you trust and obey!